Frank Oberle, the Federal Minister of State for Forestry, was in Terrace last week and met with several local organizations and officials, among them Mayor Jack Talstra.

Education line re-opens

A toll-free line established by the Ministry of Education to answer questions about changes being implemented in the province's school system is back in service after a summer break.

The information line is primarily intended to answer concerns of parents about changes like dual-entry kindergarten and ungrade primary classes.

Those changes will be tried out in pilot projects starting next month in four schools in School District 88, one of them Thornhill Primary.

Anyone seeking information on the new system can call 1-800-663-7614 on Mondays and Wednesdays from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. between now and Sept. 13.

Larry Krause named to board of NWCC

The Lieutenant-Governor in Council has announced two new appointments to the Board of Northwest Community College.

Larry Krause, pharmacist, is a well-known local businessman, the co-owner and president of Northern Drugs Ltd. with retail stores in five communities in the northwest. Krause is also a senator of the British Columbia Pharmaceutical Society. His appointment fills the vacancy created by John Morgan, who recently moved to Prince George with his family.

Nancy Wilson, registered nurse and mother of nine, has been general manager of Eidsvik Associates Chartered Accountants of Prince Rupert for 10 years and also has her own computer business. She will replace William Smith of Prince Rupert who resigned from the Board in June, 1989.

Further appointments are expected to be announced shortly.

Terrace RCMP first in Canada to use new law

TERRACE — The local RCMP detachment has become the first in Canada to successfully prosecute under a recently enacted section of the Criminal Code that allows seizing assets of criminals that have been obtained through crime.

Terrace residents Joseph Emil Therrien and Patricia Ann Smart were each sentenced on Nov. 28, 1988 to 18 months in jail for conspiracy to traffic in narcotics. Under Section 354(1) of the Criminal Code, the government also seized $4,000 in cash, a 1985 Mercury Cougar automobile and a 1982 Chrysler New Yorker.

Cst. Martin, a General Investigation Services and Drug Section officer for the Terrace detachment said yesterday the period during which Therrien and Smart would have been allowed to appeal the decision has now elapsed, and the assets seized will revert to the Crown, with the two cars going up for auction.

Martin noted that the new section applies to goods obtained from the proceeds of any type of crime, not just drug trafficking. He said the test used is the existence of any assets that can't be accounted for through normal means of acquisition, like a legitimate income, by the accused.

The investigation that resulted in this conviction took a year, and the local detachment was assisted by the Prince Rupert RCMP subdivision.

Martin said the question of how the assets are divided up between federal and provincial governments remains to be resolved.

Oberle says FRDA still breathing

TERRACE — Who said the second generation Forest Resource Development Agreement (FRDA II) is dead? Not Frank Oberle, federal Minister of State for Science and Technology and Minister of State for Forestry.

He said during an interview in Terrace last week that a federal/provincial agreement for FRDA II is near — all that's required is for the two parties to come to an agreement on the cost-sharing ratio.

The FRDA I cost sharing ratio was 50/50 but it expires Mar. 31, 1990. As far as FRDA II is concerned, Oberle will only say, "We will contribute a fair share of it." But he does drop a hint that indicates the federal government may not be willing to pay half.

"Keep in mind that the province has the principle responsibility (for forestry) and derive the greatest benefit," says Oberle. He points out also that the province recently changed its forest policies and has significantly increased their revenue from forest harvesting. "Three hundred and twenty million in export taxes alone," he says. "But we are willing to share in the cost."

Oberle says the new agreement, $1 billion over 10 years, may not be quite as rich on an annual basis as FRDA I — $100 million annually compared to $140 million — but it will be much more focused over a greater period of time and will produce more long-lasting results.

Oberle says that the basic concept for the FRDA program is sustainable yield but there is much more that needs to be done in the forest industry than just cultivate trees. The whole industry from the tree to a final product, whether it be paper or a chest of drawers, has to be fine tuned.

The "A" Team — In Japanese karate that is. This group was in Terrace last week, just before Northwest karate clubs made a spectacular showing in a world karate tournament in Vancouver. They are (left to right) team member Relichi Fukuoka, team captain Hiroshi Tanaka, Terrace's chief karate instructor David Akutagawa, "A" Team coach Tsuyoshi Chitose, who is also the world's chief instructor (the youngest ever) for Chito-Ryu karate, Ryuichi Nakamura and Tatsumi Takasu. For story, see page 24.

Harcourt courts Chamber

TERRACE — Mike Harcourt, a New Democratic Party MLA for Vancouver Centre and the leader of the province's official opposition, addressed members of the Terrace and District Chamber of Commerce Monday. His message was that the NDP is a party that can get along with business.

We have to produce more using fewer trees, according to Oberle, and in accomplishing that, "We intend to play an enlarged role," says Oberle.

"We have to meet the needs in the province to the year 2000 to restock the forests," says Oberle, and he says Sweden has shown us how it can be done.

They manage their forests much more intensively, increasing their annual cut and getting far more out of a cubic metre of wood than we ever have. According to Oberle, Sweden has only half the land base that B.C. does but they get four times the value from their forest resource.

Oberle says there is one other matter that needs to be addressed as well — environmental issues. "Forestry is not just a means to simply supply industry with raw materials," he explains. "The forests are the lungs of the planet and we have to have a very strong commitment to maintain them. We have to improve our management."

"Like Terrace, we've undergone change. We're a new group of young professionals, a team," he told the noon-hour luncheon crowd. After a series of personal sketches of his caucus colleagues, Harcourt called them "a tremendous mix of people... many of them business people."

Harcourt said the NDP's goal is to make B.C. a model for sustainable development. His perception of northern B.C.'s role in that platform is three-fold, he said: sustained yield forest management, preservation of wilderness for the tourism industry, and the resolution of native land claims.

To accomplish those goals, he went on, the province needs to "quit exploiting the differences, work cooperatively on common strengths and common goals, and establish a process to resolve conflicts." He described the means to achieve that as "willingness to reach a reasonable accommodation."

On a provincial level, Harcourt said, the goal of an NDP government would be to create "a bigger economic pie". He said the NDP's philosophy of a mixed economy is "right in the mainstream of Canadian economic tradition", a mixture of private and public sector influences, with the public sector — government — acting as "stewards of the resources" and the private sector initiative being

"vital to a higher standard of living".

With regard to policy toward business, Harcourt said an NDP government would adapt a "no surprises" policy.

"Pay your taxes, treat your employees fairly, and don't mess up the environment" was his condensed policy message. He also said an NDP government would "live within the means of B.C.", alluding again to his previous statement that many of the B.C. NDP caucus members are independent business people accustomed to balancing budgets.

Harcourt also took a run at forest policies, saying a New Democrat administration would award Tree Farm Licenses to companies that put forward the best economic development and value-added plan for use of timber. He also expressed disappointment in the low level of forest product research and development spending in B.C., noting that the NDP would establish a provincial R&D agency "to achieve the maximum potential from every unit of wood".

Harcourt concluded by urging the audience, "I say 'share our vision' to those who say it can't be done. Let's end the conflict, make tough decisions together, like a family."

Harcourt was accompanied by Atlin MLA Larry Guno and Prince Rupert MLA Dan Miller.

MIKE HARCOURT: urges non-believers to "share the vision".

WE'RE GETTING SOME NEW PARTS

A whole bunch of them as a matter of fact. When River Industries opens in its new location on Highway 16 by the bridge to Ferry Island, we're going to become Terrace's newest retail outlet to carry a complete line of auto parts, accessories and just about everything else you need to keep your vehicle running in top shape.

River Industries has enthusiastically joined the continent-wide United Auto Parts network, a widely respected distributor of auto and truck supplies. When you drop in to see us after our new building opens, you'll be able to buy everything from fuel pumps to mud flaps over the counter, fast, and at competitive prices.

BUT WE'VE KEPT THE OLD PARTS

In our industrial service, however, nothing is going to change except to get better. We're going to continue full-bore at providing the best in parts and service to the logging and construction industries.

Property tax review: it looks to be about time

The provincial government's Property Tax Forum will hold a three-hour hearing in Terrace a week from tomorrow. In view of the manner in which residential property taxes have gone up in this area over the past few years, there should be no shortage of interests and submissions for the panel when they sit down and begin listening at 9:30 a.m. at the Inn of the West banquet room Aug. 31.

by Michael Kelly

Local governments in British Columbia — municipalities, regional districts and school boards — get basic funding grants from the provincial governments to provide services. These local governments, headed by locally-elected officials, are empowered to raise money beyond the provincial grants through certain types of local taxes.

Any property owner in this area taking a casual glance at his or her tax notice will immediately see that the biggest number on the sheet is the tax assessment for local schools. In the past five years that figure has gone from substantial to enormous.

In School District 88, from 1983 to 1988 the total amount of money collected through residential property taxes, according to the B.C. Ministry of Education, went from $1,277,954 to $2,997,411, an increase of 134.55 percent, the second highest increase in B.C., a bit behind the neighboring Bulkley Valley district at 140.39 percent. During that period the provincial average was an increase of 42.91 percent.

In a shorter-term view, figures provided by School District 88 administration indicate that in 1985-86, the district spent $21,478,770; in 1989-90 the budget is for $27,815,377. During the same period the portion of the budgets raised through residential property taxation were $1,565,617 and $3,626,887 — a 119 percent tax increase for a 27 percent increase in school expenditures.

What happened? Did the value of property in the district take a sudden launch into the stratosphere? Not quite. In 1985-86 the total assessed value of taxable residential property in the district totalled $346,139,000; in 1989-90 the figure is $351,280,000: 2.8 percent.

The cost of education in the district did go up. In the 1985-86 school year the district enrolled 5,158 pupils at a cost of $4,164 per pupil; in 1989-90 the enrolment is 5,400 pupils at a cost of $5,151 per pupil. During that same period the budget sharing ratio — the amount of the total budget paid by the province — dropped from 91.74 percent to 88.52 percent.

During that same period the tax rate in School District 88, the amount payable per thousand dollars of assessed property value, went from 4.52308 to 10.32477.

The inevitable conclusion is that local property owners are paying a lot more to support public education and the provincial government is paying (to them, at least) somewhat less. The current formula used by the Ministry of Education to fund school districts involves the ministry's definition of what constitutes a good basic education, set at a rate per pupil, accompanied by some other esoteric calculations that consider special education programs

EDITORIAL

The second stage of the federal-provincial Forest Resource Development Agreement has gone through so many reported demises and resurrections and changes in form over the past year that it seems more like a politician than it does a political agreement.

A few months ago Forest Minister Dave Parker said almost conclusively that it was a dead issue, then a few weeks ago he started talking about a billion dollars over ten years rather than a FRDA similar to the five-year $750 million joint reforestation venture that had gone before. The provincial government was ready to commit its side whenever the feds would come in, Parker said.

Last week MP Frank Oberle, sporting the recently created title of Minister of State for Forests, said in Terrace that in fact he's confident there will be a FRDA II and will be worth a billion. The uncertainty remains on the split, how much federal and how much provincial money go into the agreement.

We have to wonder if this might be the sound of the federal Tories dishing out some of the additional revenue they're expecting from the Goods and Services Tax coming around in 1991. Without criticizing the reforestation concept of FRDA, which would be great for this region, we also have to wonder how truly depleted the woods in B.C. are if it requires a billion dollars and ten years just to restock the backlog and stand tend what's been replanted.

Restricted Raeside

Adrian Raeside, the cartoonist who hits the nail on the head once a week with one image for us on the Terrace Review editorial page, has ventured into the theatrical arts.

Adrian was one of four artists to submit winning entries in a competition to design new warning messages that precede "restricted" classification movies shown in B.C. theaters.

Mary Lou McCausland of the B.C. Film Board's classification division said the brief warning clip shows a sleek black cat with yellow eyes, stalking city streets and bouncing off buildings. The cat disappears through the back door of a theater, reappearing on the screen initially as a pair of yellow eyes around which the image of a cougar gradually forms.

Now that we have Adrian warning us about restricted viewing material, who's going to warn people about Adrian?

The view from Victoria —

by John Pifer

VICTORIA — All of us here in the Legislative Press Gallery have known for some time that Forests Minister Dave Parker is, to be polite, somewhat neanderthal in his outlook on life.

The stoic Parker was one of half-a-dozen little-known MLA's who were elevated into the Cabinet in July 1988 for all the wrong reasons, such as being blindly supportive of Premier Bill Vander Zalm, being anti-abortionist, and being unlikely to object to doing what they were told when it came to running their ministries.

But surely even Vander Zalm now will have to bow to the pressures to dump Parker from Cabinet next month, when he shuffles the deckchairs on the Titanic that is S.S. Social Credit.

It was bad enough when, in July, Parker quipped in the Legislature that the NDP should change its theme song to Sodomy Forever because of its support for action against the AIDS plague. But earlier this month, the minister of the Crown told a Terrace reporter that those suffering the disease have only themselves to blame, and that AIDS "is a self-inflicted wound".

Setting aside Parker's obvious anti-homosexual fears, just think of the lack of compassion and understanding that statement shows for those who contracted the disease through no apparent fault of their own. There are more than a dozen known cases in B.C. of people who got it through blood transfusions, and another dozen or more are heterosexuals who do not deserve to be tarred by Mr.

Parker's bigotry any more than the gays do.

With hundreds dying annually from it in this province alone, AIDS cannot be dismissed simply as divine retribution for those "queers", which is probably how Parker still describes them.

It needs all of the attention, resources and compassion possible. But given the attitude of Parker — and yes, the Premier, the health minister and others now "leading" this province, as shown in the two AIDS-video fiascos — it's not likely to get them.

Is there any elected MLA on the government side prepared to stand up and express their concern and regret at the whole mess? Not on your nelly... because they all have a few Social Credit voters in each of their ridings who think like Parker; and because they all keep praying that a miracle will make things better for their future prospects — a miracle which would allow them to continue to avoid having to deal with the sad, sick attitudes among some of their colleagues.

This item falls into the category of when — if ever — will Premier Bill Vander Zalm recognize when he is being used?

On Tuesday last, Vancouver stock promoter and publicity-conscious millionaire Murray Pezim dined with his latest "project", former NFL star Marc Gastineau and his lanky, pregnant wife, "actress" Brigitte Neilsen. Seems The Pez wants to lure the huge Gastineau to Vancouver to train as a boxer to take on the invincible Mike Tyson, of all people.

So who does Pezim trot out on cue to impress the visiting Americans? Why, Premier Bill and wife Lillian, of course, who had dinner with the group at the Four Seasons Hotel. It shows the clout Pezim and his money has, and apparently was designed to impress Marc and Brigitte, the latest celebrity Odd Couple.

Incidentally, don't for a moment think that sport or politics has anything to do with all of this; it's all about money, big money, that any heavy-weight title fight generates — in purses, in gambling returns, in television revenue, etc.

If Pezim can convince people to part with millions to view such a farce, so be it; but surely we British Columbians would be better served if the Premier were not involved, looking like Bill the Shill?

One other question: Was there any room for any other diners there that night, with so many over-inflated egos in one room?

Parting Thought: There is some considerable puzzlement in Social Credit Party ranks as to why Vander Zalm has not dropped the writ for the Cariboo byelection, which must be called by Nov. 10. After all, they reason, it would be politically stupid to delay the vote until after Sept. 25, which is the date that the entire NDP caucus meets at 108 Mile Ranch in the Cariboo — an event from which they could make great political mileage during a campaign. To avoid that, the Socreds would be wise

Death of a chairman — the language mutates

At least two regional districts in B.C. are at odds with Minister of Municipal Affairs, Recreation and Culture, Rita Johnston. The Regional District of Kitimat-Stikine isn't one of them, they don't seem to take the issue seriously, but it's a matter that hits close to home and should be of public interest.

by Tod Strachan

The problem is with Bill 19 — not the one that ruffled the feathers of the labor movement but another Bill 19 that updates the Municipal Act with some legislative changes that are welcomed by most if not all regional districts in the province.

The Regional District of Central Kootenay, for example, wrote Johnston and complimented her ministry for bringing in the "much needed and long overdue changes."

The problem is with one word that has been changed in Bill 19 — "chairman" is out and "chairperson" is in — and this has been cause for some nasty exchanges. After complimenting Johnston and her ministry for the changes, and thanking her for the "whole process of consultation" that preceded the changes, the head of the Central Kootenay board of directors, George Cady, (note how easy it is to get around the 11 letter word) described the use of "chairperson" as "demeaning and not representative of the position ascribed".

"At the risk of appearing petty, Madam Minister, I feel compelled to point out one item that was never considered or discussed at the five meetings which I attended during the process," writes Cady, who signed his letter as "Chairman" of the Board. "I am referring to Section 782(1) which calls for the election of a "chairperson". The militant feminists of the world have prevailed once more!

"One would have thought — after listening to the debate on the resolution at Whistler last year where the feminists attempted to change alderman to alderperson — that you would have been ill advised to reintroduce this argumentative subject. At the convention, discussions and feelings on the issue of neutering all terms, strongly indicated that it was an issue not to be brought back to the floor again and was soundly defeated.

"Where next then will the feminists have us go to make them feel they are equal. Does the Minister of Municipal Affairs then become the Ministress of Municipal Affairs? Does a female representing a rural area now become the Directress of Area "A"? Does the Planning Manager now become a Planning Managress? If carried to its ultimate conclusion, all sorts of weird changes can take place. What would happen to terms like manage, manipulate, manufacture or manned flights into space?"

To further prove his point, and also to prove "chairman" is technically the correct term anyway, Cady attached a copy of an article written by Brian Warren — head of the Department of Languages at the Swinburne Institute of Technology in Hawthorn, Australia. Warren says it has been assumed by many that the word "chairperson" formed the idea of "person" which referred to both male and female persons. According to Warren, however, this assumption is wrong and indicates an ignorance on the part of the speaker or writer as to the origin of the "man" element of

"chairman".

The "man" in "chairman" is devoid of any male implication, says Warren, because it comes from the Latin word "manus" which means "hand". With this origin then, according to Warren, the word "chairman" means "the person who handles the meeting" and has nothing to do with gender.

"Man" as it relates to the male species, on the other hand, is derived from Germanic sources, not Latin, says Warren. "Man" comes from the Gothic "mennisc" which means "man" or "thinking being". "On the basis of these points," concludes Warren, "I claim that use of the term "chairman" is mandatory, and use of "chairperson" is incorrect.

So there you have it. Now you know that the "man" you see is not always the "man" you think he is. It's just another quirk in the English language that will plague the western world.

Letter to the Editor

On brainwashing

To the Editor;

The NDP learned a lot from the tactics of Adolf Hitler. The fascists made propaganda by telling big lies. All over Europe we could read the slogan "V — is for Victory. Germany wins on all fronts". The posters were still up when the capitulation was signed by Das Reich.

The NDP editors and columnists keep writing, "Bill Vander Zalm loses on all fronts". This is propaganda the NDP does not have to pay for! If every naive reader believes this lie, the premier will lose indeed. It is a dirty fascist type of brainwashing, marking the NDP for what it really is.

The media do not want to hear the truth. MLA Dave Parker, Minister of Forests, said lately, "The NDP should change its slogan to Sodomy forever." He also said, "AIDS is a self-inflicted wound." Thank God for people like the premier and Dave who have the courage to tell it like it is. If "public opinion" is indeed against our Sacred Government, because some of its members take a public stand against immorality, I will pray that God will end this rotten world soon.

Bill Homburg, Terrace.

A who's who guide to the destruction of Lebanon

by Steve Ramzi Ismael

Terrace resident Steve Ramzi Ismael is a general sonographer and vascular technologist at Mills Memorial Hospital. He grew up in the Middle East, is of Greek and Iraqi parentage, and is an occasional contributor to the Terrace Review.

A year has gone by and Lebanon is still without a president. Many would say, "So what? Lebanon has been leaderless for the past 15 years."

A president and leader is needed for several reasons. From a legal and constitutional perspective, the present power vacuum can only lead to further entrenchment of the partition in Lebanon. It is easy prey for neighboring Syria and Israel... anyone opposing them gets killed somehow.

Another reason for needing a president is to recreate hope in the new generations. The new president must be young, clean from any connections with domestic militias or foreign powers, and have a clear-cut plan to reform the Lebanese constitution. Most difficultly, a president must have the support of the majority of Lebanese people.

The groups that would have to be placated include Syria, Israel, the U.S.A., France, the Vatican, Druzes, Maronites, Catholics, Sunii and Shiite Muslims, and others.

With wide swings in the balance of power and splits in the state and religion, members of the younger generation have fled the country and fallen victim to the warlords from Libya, Syria, Iraq, Iran and Israel. The future of any country rests in its youth. Lebanon cannot lose this wealth and survive.

Here are some of the reasons why it is difficult to satisfy everybody in Lebanon:

- It is in the interest of the Israelis to have the fighting, warfare and corruption continue in the region to draw attention away from their domestic problems with the Palestinians.

- The Palestinians, on the other hand, dream of acquiring the means to fight Israel.

- Syria claims Lebanon by historic right — it was once a province of Syria, and they want to annex it or at least maintain political control of it.

- A partial list of the interest groups within Lebanon speaks for itself: the Druze, who live in the mountains; the Egyptian-backed Nasserians; the Lebanese communist party; the Iraqi-backed Ba'ath party; the Syrian national social party; The Lebanese party... then there are the fanatics: the Al-Amal movement, Shiite Muslims backed by Syria and Libya; The Islamic group party in the south; the Islamic united party in the north; the suicidal HezboAllah; the Islamic guard; the Prophet organization party; the Iranian-backed Al-Amal Al-Islami, specialists in assassination and kidnapping; Al Husain; the Faith of God movement; the Islamic public movement; the Islamic front organization; the Islamic army; Jund Allah; the Islamic resistance front; the Islamic united workers party; and Al-Jehad Al-Islami, who work internationally and will probably be the group that eventually kills author Salmon Rushdie.

The leader of the most powerful of these, HezboAllah spiritual chief Abdul Karim Aboaid, has now been kidnapped by the Israelis for his support of the Palestinian homeland cause in Israel. One effect of this action may well be to provide a unifying motive for all the Muslim parties to work together in destroying the Israeli-backed Lebanese militia in the south. It will also go hard on Christians in Beirut and incense the Palestinians living in Israel even more.

I suspect it will be a bad year for the U.S.A. and Israel if this man is not released.

It is my belief that this land, a holy land for so many of the world's great religions, should not fall to the control of one interest group, but it should be there for everyone.

Pifer — continued from page 4

to call the byelection by Aug. 25 — next Friday (and I bet they will!).

This scribe believes the delay is because the Premier is being advised that the stars are not right yet! You may recall the extraordinary story last year about how the Premier admitted he consulted with a numerologist, and had a considerable interest in astrology, as does Miz Lillian. Methinks there is much more to it than what came out at that time.

Quite frankly, as far as the Cariboo vote is concerned, I am convinced that our Premier is ignoring the advice of his close political and party faithful, and is pinning his hopes for victory on having the timing dictated by the stars.

The way I see it...

by Stephanie Wiebe

Does it seem to you that half of Terrace's population is moving away this summer? It sure looks that way to me. Oh, sure, there are new families moving in, but so many people I know are leaving town lately — is it my breath?

My best friend left a few weeks ago. She was a real buddy, just like you had in Grade 8. We went shopping together, went to movies, and giggled over a cup of coffee. They were a nice family. But they moved away.

The people that moved into their old house might be nice, too, but I don't like them. They act as if they own the place. Oh, right. I guess they do own the place. But it doesn't feel as though it should belong to them. How dare they pick my friend's apples off the tree? We used to sit and peel those stupid green things until we were apple-crazy, making pies and crisps for the freezer. And how dare they walk on her beige carpets? Don't they know how fussy she was about those carpets? I hope they remove their shoes before they go upstairs.

Do they know that I helped weed that flower garden? I told her to plant "Snow in Summer" to fill in the beds. And I even had a key to the front door, so I could water the plants when they were away. It still feels as though I have the right to continue all that.

We used to sit on the sun-deck and sip iced tea. The kids would play on the "slip and slide", and it felt comfortable, like home. How dare those awful people invade.

I might bake some cookies and take them over to the house, being neighborly. But I won't be sincere. They might be really nice people, but how could I possibly like them?

I'd never tell anyone that I feel this way: it's so juvenile and petty. I'm more adult than that.

But I hate those people. And I miss my best friend.

Local youngsters who participated in the Kermode Friendship Centre's annual Day Camp program this summer got, among other things, a first-hand look at Terrace's RCMP facilities on a tour conducted by Cst. Sheryl Armstrong. None of them seemed very distressed at being behind bars for a few minutes.

Parents for French log busy year

Contributed by Terrace Chapter, Canadian Parents for French

This has been an active year for Terrace CPF. We have accomplished a number of important goals.

October

Cynthia Bohn attended the CPF national conference in Ottawa.

November

Hazelton school accommodated 20 people from Terrace and five CPF members from Hazelton to hear that Terrace would be getting secondary immersion.

December

A very successful "coaster mugs" fundraiser — enthusiasm and parent participation made this the only necessary fundraiser for the year.

January

Terrace hosted the first annual Northwestern British Columbia CPF meeting. BCPF president Huguette Tricker and Chapter Relations officer Lois Wade shared information with Prince Rupert, Smithers, Hazelton, Kitimat and Terrace chapters. This successful two-day conference will become an annual northwestern event.

March

Carnaval time in Terrace, and Terrace saw Carnaval on TV, as CBC gave our local Carnaval national coverage. The efforts of many parents and volunteers made this event so much fun for our children. The teacher appreciation gifts were well received, and will become an important part of Carnaval.

April

Terrace CPF donated $500 to the Terrace Public Library, from the December fundraiser, to be used to purchase reference books at the secondary immersion level.

May

Concours was held at the Caledonia lecture theater, where the Grade 4 winner was Ian Bohle; the Grade 5 winner was

CPF

Kim Dunbar, the Grade 6 winner was Robin Harris, and the Grade 7 winner was Alanna Turcotte. Patti Barnes enjoyed the BCPF annual general meeting in Victoria. Two Grade 7 students attended workshops and entertainments at the BCPF-sponsored Immersion Youth Conference, "La Fete Columbiennne des Enfants".

June

Elections were held at the annual general meeting, and the 1989-90 executive are as follows:

President — Kathy Albert; past-president — Sue Trombley; vice-presidents — Joan Norman, Patti Barnes; secretary — Terry Gordon; treasurer — Sandra Parr; school board liaison — Sue Trombley; newsletter — Ada Sarsiat; librarian/historian — Marg Corp; phone committee — Darlene Westerman; French classes/ways and means — Cynthia Bohn; publicity — Jackie Munro; membership — Sandra Parr; Concours/Carnaval — available to be filled.

Fall Kindergarten has limited space, so contact Kiti K'shan School to enrol your child.

Terrace lost one of our founding members, Kathy Morgan. Kathy and her family recently moved to Prince George. Kathy, with a small group of parents, were instrumental in leading the way to school board liaison.

Good luck, Kathy — you will be missed!

There are still a few verb conjugation books left at $7.50/members, and $8.25/non-members. Contact Kathy Albert.

If you have not yet got a CPF membership, now is the time to get ready for the fall.

CPF invites and encourages all parents to become involved. A successful year depends upon parent participation and we look forward to your input as the immersion program expands into Skeena Junior Secondary School.

Goodbye and best wishes to all the teachers who are leaving, and we look forward to the arrival of new teachers.

We will see you on Wednesday, Sept. 27 at Kiti K'shan. PS: the CPF meetings are always the last Wednesday of the month.

Kermode Camp gives youngsters activities

The Kermode Friendship Centre's Day Camp Program has been a great way to spend a part of the summer for dozens of local youngsters. According to camp supervisor Aaron Morven, more than 50 young people took advantage of one of the three two-week camps that ran this summer.

The Day Camp is an annual event sponsored by the Friendship Centre at no cost to participants and operates in two-week segments from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily.

During the camps, participants toured Heritage Park, McDonald's, Northern Native Broadcasting, the RCMP building and the fire hall, hiked the Terrace Mountain trail, spent some time in the pool and a day at the lake, took advantage of the playground and grass at George Little Memorial Park and tried their hands at arts and crafts.

Morven was assisted this summer by six camp leaders: Valli Chhokar, Elizabeth Batty, Colin Lincoln, Doug Moore, Shan-nelle Alexander and Tammy Anderson.

Assistance grant makes our library even more high-tech

Exciting things have been happening at the Terrace Public Library this summer.

by Kaeleen Bruce

A grant of $3,443 has been received from the provincial government. The extra money will be used to increase the library's collection of videos and compact discs, which have both proved to be very popular items. The grant is unconditional and was presented separate from the library's annual provincial grant of $39,372. It is part of a special provincial assistance fund of $540,000 to be paid to all B.C. public library organizations.

The grant is being provided in response to recommendations of the 1988 Ministerial Task Force on Public Libraries. The amount of each grant was determined by calculating 20 cents per capita, based on the total population served by each library.

The library has also obtained some new equipment. Like many other libraries in the province, the local library has fully committed itself to the electronic age. There is a new reader-printer for microfilm, and two additional public access terminals for the catalogue-on-computer have been installed to replace the card catalogue, which has been dismantled.

Librarian Ed Currell said he's looked forward to this day, but he is a bit sad to see the end of the old card catalogue. However, it had become obsolete, he explained, since it had not been updated in over a year. The card catalogue was very labor-intensive, requiring many entries for each book while the computer requires only one entry for each title, he said.

Although library staff do not look forward to power outages, the new system is still less work and they are quite happy with it.

"Better or not, it's progress!" said Jim Oliver of Skeena Broadcasters, who installed the new terminals with assistance from son Shaun. Oliver was also involved in writing the computer program for the library in 1984, along with Neil Weber. In October 1985, Oliver installed the main computer and the first two public access terminals.

This new technology has taken up all the space on the library's electric panels, says Ed Currell. He hopes expansion plans for the library building, which are in the works, will remedy this problem.

Library staff welcome any questions regarding the new equipment and will be happy to provide assistance to those people who are computer-shy.

And what of the fate of the old card catalogue? The majority of the 100,000 cards were kept for recycling for other uses in the library, while the wooden cabinet was donated to the Public Works department for storing nuts and bolts.

Jim Oliver and son Shaun were the crew who did the installation on the Terrace Public Library's upgraded computer system recently.

Children's Festival wows 'em again

The annual Terrace Children's Festival is becoming a highlight of the summer vacation for local children. Held at Lower Little Park Sunday, Aug. 13, the sixth annual Children's Festival was a resounding success.

by Kaeleen Bruce

Despite the ominous morning downpour, the sky cleared and the afternoon was sunny and hot. Festival organizer Lori Merrill, perhaps recalling the drizzle at last year's festival, expressed delight at the sunshine: "The weather has done incredible things for us this year!"

There was a large turn-out for the festival, with many local families taking advantage of this unique opportunity for creative fun, all of which was provided free of charge.

Children had a chance to exercise their artistic talents at the rattle-making and print-making booths. The long line-up at the hat-making booth attested to its popularity. Lovely creations of crepe paper, foil and cardboard adorned the heads of many youngsters. Face-painting and a dress-up area also allowed children to join in the colorful spirit of the festival.

The stilt construction workshop and the carpentry area provided a place to use budding young woodworking skills. Some of the moms and dads were enlisted to help their children create birdhouses, swords, and unique pieces of wooden sculpture. A parent's steady hand also proved helpful when trying out stilts for the first time.

Co-operative games, bubble blowing and juggling demonstrations were other enjoyable features. The fish pond was a delight for the smaller children.

The shows performed by the Science Squad at the Science World tent were very popular.

Besides being a lot of fun, the demonstrations were educational as well. Basic principles of optics, physics, and chemistry were presented in a creative upbeat manner. One of the most spectacular and crowd-pleasing displays was when one of the Squad members used a large hammer to smash a cement brick which rested upon the chest of another Squad member who was lying on a bed of nails. (Please DO NOT attempt this stunt at home!).

"Power snacks" of free juice and popcorn were available throughout the afternoon to provide youngsters with energy for all the activities.

The last event of the day was the conclusion of "Balloon Mania". Throughout the afternoon, children were invited up to the main stage to add a balloon to the giant balloon being constructed from many small ones glued together. For the finale, the multi-colored giant balloon was pushed onto an orange and white parachute where vigorous shaking by the children caused it to break apart and pop like the sound of giant popping corn.

Children were asked to participate in the litter clean-up by hunting for the "magic" scraps.

At the end of the festival, organizers and volunteers were tired but pleased with the successful result of their efforts. "It was better than last year and there was a really nice feeling," were thoughts expressed by Elizabeth Snyder, a festival organizer.

Lori Merrill, another organizer, expressed her gratitude to the other people involved in making the festival a success. "We could always use more volunteers, but the same people come through for us every year."

THE NEW ENVIRONMENTAL PARTNERS FUND.

TOGETHER, WE CAN MAKE A DIFFERENCE.

Created by the Government of Canada, the Partners Fund will make $50 million available over the next five years for projects to help local groups protect, preserve, enhance and restore our environment.

Anyone can get involved.

If you're a member of a service club, community organization, environmental group or a school or youth group, discuss the Partners Fund with your leaders. If you have a good idea, organize your own group and apply to the Partners Fund soon.

How much can a Partner receive?

Partners can receive up to $200,000.00 over three years, depending on the size of the project. In keeping with the idea of partnership, the federal contribution is limited to 50 per cent of the total cost.

Environment Canada / Environnement Canada

Many ways to be effective.

Clean up local parks, lakes or streams. Develop new community or office recycling programs. Use your imagination and get involved!

Apply soon

The first deadline for applications is September 1st, 1989 with awards to be announced in early autumn. Beginning in 1990, there will be three deadlines each year: March 1st; June 1st; and September 1st.

For more information or for an application kit to get your ideas into action, please write or call the Environment Canada office in your province or territory.

Zone sends 51 entries to B.C. Seniors' Games

The Northwest's zone 10 has lined up 51 competitors to take part in the second annual B.C. Seniors' Games at Trail next month. This year Trail is hosting the three-day effort from Sept. 6 to 8.

The 15-man slo-pitch softball team has lined up Burdett Distributors to sponsor them in the venue for players 55 and older.

Athlete numbers in each of the remaining 13 out of 19 events we have entered are as follows.

Five-pin bowlers (5).
One-act play (2).
Horseshoes (3).
Snooker (1).
Tennis (2).
Golf (2).

Cribbage (4).
Darts (1).
Carpet bowlers (5).
Bridge (4).
Badminton (5).
Track and Field (1).
Swimming (1).

Forty-one of our athletes are travelling to Trail by chartered bus which leaves Terrace at 9 a.m. on Labour Day. The remaining 10 are going by private vehicles. All are expected back on Sunday the 10th.

In Terrace's summer hockey school, attentive kids are getting instruction in lectures as well as workouts.

Coming events in regional sports

You can win up to $1,000 for your fish if you happen to land the largest coho salmon on Labour Day weekend at Kitimat's fourth annual fishing derby on the Kitimat River and Douglas Channel. This Saturday-Sunday event is open to fishermen of all ages for a $5 fee. Tickets are being sold at stores showing the derby poster, and must be purchased before derby day. For more information, phone 632-6294.

The entry deadline is Monday the 28th for the first annual Larry Swanson Memorial slo-pitch men's open tournament that offers prize money and trophies. Sponsored by Thornhill Motors, the team entry fee is $300. Enter at Thornhill Motors.

Still time to get an entry in for the third annual Inn of the West's charity golf tournament — an 18-hole, two-ball and alternate shot event at Skeena Valley Golf & Country Club on Sunday the 27th. Your $60 fee includes golf, lunch and dinner and hundreds of dollars in prizes. Sign up at the Inn of the West.

Registration for the Terrace Peaks Gymnastic Club takes place this Friday (4 to 9 p.m.) and Saturday (10 a.m. to 5 p.m.) at the Skeena Mall. This sign-up is for all levels.

There's fun but also a lot of hard work involved for aspiring young players at Terrace Minor Hockey's popular summer school.

Midget stars try junior hockey

Terrace's Davey Jones and Jared Ewart missed out on earning places on the B.C.-Alberta 'best-ever' under-17 hockey team, so they're off to take a crack at junior hockey for the upcoming season.

Jones and Ewart both failed to make the last cut at the final training camp in Osoyoos earlier this month. Forty-six of B.C.'s best were invited to this camp, but only six forwards, three defencemen and one goalie were chosen to form a team with the best 10 from Alberta to play at the International Christmas Tournament in Quebec.

Both players started out in April on their attempt at a 'best-ever' berth. They were chosen locally to take part in a 46-player camp at Chetwynd, April 7 to 9.

Ewart and Jones both won places for the North Team at Chetwynd.

The team, along with five other B.C. regional squads, went to Osoyoos for the B.C. Cup tournament running April 20 to 23.

The Terrace youths helped the North Team to a three-win, two-loss record to finish second overall. "It was the best a North Team had ever done at this series," Jones told us.

Coaches' evaluations of the 120 players at the B.C. Cup boosted Ewart and Jones, along with 44 others, to attend another camp at Osoyoos starting early August.

Originally, plans were for the 46 youths to attend camp, then be trimmed to 23 players to join up with Alberta's 23 best, and cut down to 23 again to form the Pacific team nucleus.

The plan was changed in July. Organizers decided to hold separate B.C. and Alberta 46-player camps and select the best 10 from each to make up the Pacific squad.

Neither Jones nor Ewart made the last cut, but they drew the attention of junior coaches around the province. Both accepted invitations to attend the Western Hockey League's Victoria Cougars' rookie tryouts starting the weekend of the 19th.

As a backup to Victoria, they planned to drive from the Island to Prince George to work out with the Spruce Kings of the Peace-Cariboo Junior League, if Victoria fell through.

The chase for the under-17 team was costly. Jones told us that between travel and accommodations, they each spent several hundred dollars.

"Terrace Minor Hockey and my parents came up with most of the money — it was the same for Jared," Jones said.

Jones said the majority of training was 'on-ice' although evaluations on fitness included outdoor sprints and weight-lifting capacity.

"The only thing different from training sessions at Terrace was on-ice wind sprints," Jones pointed out. "The workouts were hard, believe me."

These sessions were one-and-a-half hours in length, twice daily. "One day we had three workouts."

Jones felt the camps were worth it. "I learned quite a bit, mainly zone play on defence and where to go in my own end."

Chances are both boys will catch on with a junior team. "I don't expect to be playing in Terrace this year," Jones said.

Shelley third

Eighteen-year-old Shelley Morris of Smithers has won a bronze medal at the 1989 Canada Games in Saskatoon this week. The high school grad this spring, who is one of six athletes at the games from this area, jumped 1.79 meters in the high jump. Her height was the same as the winner and runner-up, but they had fewer misses on tries at that height.

The summer hockey school is a prelude to the beginning of the season for Terrace Minor Hockey. Registration, along with an equipment exchange, is set for Sept. 8 and 9. Minor hockey is hoping there'll be enough interest to start a girls' team this year.

Minor hockey gearing up for season

Terrace Minor Hockey plans to start something new this season — a team for girls aged 10 to 15.

Interest in this project has been shown in the past, and now they're making a move. Rod McInnes will be in charge of this girls' hockey, so phone him at 635-9689 for more information.

Registration for all minor hockey players (girls included) takes place Sept. 8 from 6 to 8:30 p.m. and Sept. 9 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Skeena Mall.

Terrace Minor Hockey also needs coaches, referees, division heads and managers for the coming season. Those interested can contact Dick Kilborn at 635-3661, or Lew Larmour at 635-3631.

Minor hockey has an equipment swap outside Paragon Insurance at the Skeena Mall from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 9. People with items to sell or swap should have them at the mall clearly marked with name and price by 10 a.m.

Team members sought for girls' hockey

Contributed by Ellen Smith

Terrace Minor Hockey would like to start something new this year — a team for girls aged 10 to 15.

For the past couple of years, interest has been down in such a team, and we think this is the year to get it started. Rod McInnes will be in charge of the group, so people requiring further information should phone him at 635-9689.

Registration for all minor hockey players will be on Friday, Sept. 8 from 6 to 8:30 p.m. and Saturday, Sept. 9 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Skeena Mall. Registration fees for the 1989-90 season are $85 for pre-novice and $105 for novice and up and girls.

A family rate of $225 is available to families having three or more children registered in minor hockey.

River Industries to offer auto parts in new location

River Industries, a well-known parts and service outlet in Terrace for logging and construction operations, will broaden their market approach when the company moves into its new premises on Highway 16 by the bridge to Ferry Island.

Owner Don Hull says River Industries has arranged to become a member outlet of the United Auto Parts continent-wide distribution network and will offer a complete line of auto parts and accessories.

"We're going to expand into the automotive field with a full range of parts and equipment at competitive prices," Hull said last week. He added, however, that the company will continue to offer its industrial services like wire, cable and hydraulics, retaining the same emphasis on fastening devices. "They may only be nuts and bolts," he remarked, "but they hold everything together."

The new building will be a built-to-suit lease arrangement for River Industries, with 1,950 square feet of floor area.

Hull expects to move into it in about four to six weeks. He noted that although it's about the same size as their current premises at Highway 16 and Kalum Lake Drive, the new building will solve a chronic parking problem with large equipment that plagued the old location. Filling is currently underway to increase the lot size on the east side of the new place.

It's going to be a new home for River Industries in about a month, and the staff recently made a visit to check out progress. Dave Beck (left) will be manager of the new auto parts division. He was joined by proprietor Don Hull and wife Elsie, and Bob Petrie, head of the industrial service.

Northern Development Council wants land claims settled

The Northern Development Council (NDC), an association of the seven regional districts in the northern two-thirds of the province, has identified one factor which has, and continues to be, an impediment to development in the north.

by Tod Strachan

In a letter to Jack Weisgerber, Minister of State for Nechako and Northeast and the MLA in charge of native affairs for the Socred government, NDC chairman Len Fox writes, "It is the perspective of the Northern Development Council that native issues are having a negative impact on economic development in the north by creating a degree of uncertainty for existing as well as proponents of resource based industrial proposals."

Fox says that this uncertainty stems from concerns for the security of the initial investment and the investors ability to recover that investment in the event it is affected by a land claims settlement. According to Fox, in the investors' minds a settlement has the potential to disrupt planned development or even cause total failure of a project.

Fox asks for the issue to be addressed immediately. "To this end, we would encourage the provincial government for the obvious economic benefits to not only the Northern Development Committee area but the entire province to undertake a catalyst role in the resolution process of this long outstanding issue."

At their last meeting, however, the Regional District of Kitimat-Stikine paid little attention to Fox's letter. The letter was never mentioned and was received for information only along with a package of 22 other documents. Director Gordon Robinson is the regional district's representative on the NDC board and he was asked why the regional board decided to ignore Fox's expression of concern.

Robinson explains that while the board is sympathetic to both the land claims issue and the economic factors involved, they have taken a "hands off" stand. He says the board realized several years ago that there was little they could do on such a large issue that would affect the ultimate decision made by the federal and possibly provincial governments. Premier Vander Zalm has stated the same position and this leaves the federal government on its own until such time as they open talks at the provincial or local level.

No, it isn't a new catering business! It's just Rainer Giannella and assistant Sonja Paulitschke holding an open house last week at the new office of Rainer Giannella Systems in the Tillicum Theatre Building. They specialize in advisory and consultation work in computer systems for business and individuals, and they offer computer use workshops for small groups.

Local 4-H members host Japanese visitors

A group of 40 Japanese students arrived in B.C. on July 24 to begin a month-long stay in Canada. The first five days were spent in the Fraser Valley, where they attended a camp called Holiday Acres. The purpose of the camp was mainly to help the youngsters to adapt to a foreign climate and new environment. After five days of hiking, crafts and outdoor activities, the children travelled to their final destinations for the rest of their stay in Canada. Three of the young people came north to Terrace to spend three weeks here, each with a different family.

by Alie Toop

On July 30 Masaaki Ishibashi from Yokohama, Shugo Yanagisawa from Sayama and Akiko Sezaki from Abiko, Japan arrived in Terrace. The Mullers, the Rafuses and the Hamer-Warner family were all there to greet them. Masaaki is staying with the Muller family. Son Trevor is Masaaki's age. Shugo is staying with the Rafuse family. Their son Quinton is the same age as Shugo, and Akiko found a friend in Lindsay, who is the daughter of Sherry Hamer.

Since they've been here, the children have adjusted well to their new families, a different lifestyle and a whole new atmosphere. Since the children do not speak English or very little, and have a hard time understanding it, the families have all gone on field trips together so the children would not feel so isolated.

They visited the Deep Creek hatchery and took a day trip to Prince Rupert, where they visited the museum and went swimming in the pool and, of course, they went shopping. The Mullers took their family and Masaaki to the Queen Charlotte Islands for a trip. Every experience, however small, is new to the Japanese children. The other day they had lots of fun roasting weiners, something they had never done before.

Shugo has gone fishing with his Canadian family and caught a 14-pound spring salmon. They all went to the horse show during Riverboat Days and took in the parade. They also participated in ordinary family activities such as grocery shopping.

On the day of the parade, the 4-H Club members were selling hot dogs, ice cream and pop in the Safeway parking lot. Everything was supplied by Safeway. The proceeds were used to benefit the 4-H Club. Masaaki, Shugo and Akiko were there to help out, and had a great time.

Masaaki is 15 years old and is in Grade 10. He likes Terrace very much. "There are so many trees and so much grass and everything is so green," he remarks through a translator. He had a chance to ride a horse, something he's never done before. In Japan, rich people are allowed to have horses, but ordinary people don't have a chance to own horses, let alone ride one. He was so happy, he said, that he got to ride a horse. It might not be very special to the people here, but it was very special to me, he said.

He finds life much more relaxed here than in Japan. Here, breakfast is served anytime, whereas in Japan the whole family sits down together for breakfast. Students are much freer here than in Japan. You cannot drive a car to school, and he's not allowed to ride a bike to school — he has to take the bus everyday. There are a lot of rules for students in Japanese schools. They have to wear a uniform to school, even in the summer. They either wear black or navy blue. Girls are not allowed to wear makeup or jewellery of any kind. If they do, they are sent home.

The school holidays are much longer here. Summer holidays in Japan are only one month long. Japanese life, not only in the schools but also family life, is very strict. The kids are so free here, he says again.

Shugo is 12 years old and is in Grade 7. He likes it here. Everything is so green, you can see the mountains up close and go to the lake, you are so close to nature, he says. Because of school holidays and life being more relaxed, the family he stays with eats only twice a day. Life is stricter in Japan. There he eats three meals a day, no matter what. He also finds that Japanese school children have a lot more homework than their Canadian counterparts.

Akiko is 11 years old and in Grade 6. She finds the countryside very green: the trees, the grass and the flowers, she likes it very much. She was very surprised she could swim in the lake. They have lots of lakes in Japan, but most of them are dirty and they are not allowed to swim in them. The way people take a bath here is very different. Bathing in Japan is a leisurely activity, not just a process by which a person becomes clean. The toilet is also a separate room from the bath. The actual washing oneself is done outside the tub, with water splashing all over the floor and going down the drain in the floor. Once a person is clean, they step into the bath (usually deep and square), and the user sits immersed in very hot water up to the neck. The whole family uses the same hot water in the tub, but not at the same time.

Akiko finds that Canadians waste too much hot water. Every time somebody has a bath, the water is just drained away. She has also noticed that children her age here are bigger than the Japanese and that children her age wear jewellery and sometimes even makeup. In Japan they don't.

The day I talked to them, Lindsay was teaching Akiko how to make friendship bracelets. I could tell by the smiles on their faces that they liked the experience of being in a foreign country and staying with these families. For these young children to come to a strange land is really nothing short of brave.

Last but not least, I want to thank Mariko, my interpreter. Without her I could not have done this story.

Understanding promoted

Utrek is an International Exchange Center in Tokyo and is responsible for the planning and exchange preparations in Japan. The liaison between 4-H and Utrek is the Kawaguchi Group and Incentives in Seattle. The B.C. Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries, through the 4-H Program, arranges for hosts and provides staff and administrative support to the program.

Utrek is a non-profit educational organization founded for the purpose of assisting in the education of a new generation of internationally-aware young people. By a program of international home stays and outdoor activities, Utrek proposes a means of stimulating its participants to think of both the "cultural" and "natural" dimensions of human life. By having the young people live as members of a Canadian family, the program can help establish a better understanding between people of the world.

The Utrek Exchange person is not a 4-H member. The majority of children are from large cities or from an urban environment. In preparation for travel, the young people attend orientation sessions in Japan. Information is presented on North American geography, culture and customs.

The fundamental purpose of the exchange program is to enable participants to learn the kinds of thinking, daily life and activities of the young people of the host country. Such things are best learned by actual experience in the family's daily life. The guest is to become a part of the family for the duration of his or her stay. It is hoped, that through this daily association, a lifelong friendship will be developed with her or his host friend.

It is for this purpose that Utrek in Japan and 4-H in Canada have linked together.

Bits 'n' Pieces — by Alle Toop

Terraceview.

Ran into somebody last week I had not seen for years. Hans Vander Boon used to live in Terrace, but for the last nine years the family has lived in Smithers. They are coming back to make their home in Terrace again, as soon as they sell their house and tie up some loose ends.

Many of you will remember the Van Barneveld family when they lived in Terrace. When I first met Otto Van Barneveld, he owned Doc's Cartage (that's forever and a day ago). They retired and moved away. Otto passed away some years ago, but Anna still lives in Duncan.

Mrs. Van Barneveld spent some time in the Northwest recently. She came to Houston for an anniversary and afterwards travelled down to Terrace for a few days to visit with her brother and sister-in-law, Chris and Alice Troelstra.

Jacob Mantel and Fred Berg-hauser have just returned from a trip overseas. They went to visit Holland and Germany.

They stayed in Andyk in Holland for a few days with Mr. Mantel's niece. Jacob and Fred then travelled to Wiesbaden, Germany trying to locate some of Fred's relatives. Unfortunately, they were not successful. They travelled back and spent their last week enjoying the sites in and around Amsterdam.

Mildred Dahl is up her visiting. she and her husband used to live in Terrace.

After her husband passed away, she moved to Nelson. Says Mildred; "If it was not for my daughter living in Nelson, I would move back to Terrace. I love the people down here, Terrace is just so friendly." She spent a week with her friend Dot Acton, and when I met her she was staying with Marie Harrison. Marie calls me "my adopted mother" she says smilingly. She is going to round off her visit staying with Do Bates.

She has been going to the Happy Gang Centre for lunch and a game of cards and has a good time meeting old friends. Talk about playing cards — last year Mildred and a friend were the senior Citizen crib champions of B.C. at the Seniors' Games.

When she leaves here she'll go back to Nelson for the rest of the summer, and is looking forward to spending the winter in San Diego, where her son lives. But for now, she is in Terrace and enjoying every minute of it.

Vesta Douglas has just returned from the Sunny South, where she attended the nuptials of Michele Vander-meer, R.N. to Tyronne Guthrie, Bachelor of Science. The cathedral-like setting, outdoors, at the Summerland Research Station was very impressive. The reception was held in Penticton. Early in September, Michele and Tyronne will be back to work in Vancouver. Michele is a Caledonia grad.

Miss Terrace 1987, Charlotte Schoeps, will spend the next six months in Montreal to attend

It's official: Sept. 4 to 9 is going to be Union Label Week in Terrace. With appropriate headgear, Mayor Jack Talstra signed the proclamation last week with Wilma Costain, president of the Kitimat-Terrace & District Labour Council. The week is promoted by local labor leaders to encourage people to buy union-made products of Canada when they're shopping.

French immersion classes. This has been an ambition of hers for several years. We wish her much success.

This is it for this week. If you have an item of interest for this column, please phone me at 635-2723. I'd like to leave you with the following:
An English lesson was given to a class of foreigners, when the teacher asked the class to compose a sentence containing the words: defence, defeat and detail. This is the sentence she got from one of the bright pupils: When a cat jumps over defence, defeat go in front of detail!

Have a good week everybody.

What do Marie Chapman, Al Darby, Betty Gare, Bernie Goyette, Dorothy Kurulok, Jean Limin, Nancy Lindsay, Greta Pauls, Randy Penner, Rhea Perry, Frank Rowe, Janine Rioux, Joe Wideman, Archie Hippiusley and Hazel and Alf DeFrane have in common? They are all celebrating birthdays in August. Many happy returns to all of you!

Terraceview residents celebrating birthdays this month are: Nina Huebschwerlen, Archibald Dewar, Carl Bolton and Jean Taylor. Happy birthday to you and also to Jean Taylor a special welcome to

For the second year in a row, the mobile home owned by Andy and Howard Chafin won first prize in the annual appearance contest at the Timberland Trailer Court in Thornhill. Proprietors Ron and Ginnie Lowrie gave the Chafins a free month's rent. Judge for this year's contest was Terrace and District Chamber of Commerce president Bob Park.

Horoscope

- ARIES
Mar. 21-Apr. 19
The new Moon on Thursday could usher in a bright new start for job prospects or physical fitness.
- TAURUS
Apr. 20-May 20
Love and romance are indicated. It's an excellent time for expressing creative talents. A clash of wills could create uneasiness.
- GEMINI
May 21-June 20
Property matters are high on the list of what must be tended to. A senior member demands to be heard.
- CANCER
June 21-July 22
Relationships with those in your daily environment assume significance. Give thought to what you say and the influence it carries.
- LEO
July 23-Aug. 22
A treasure comes to light as you look through possessions in your housecleaning upheaval. Only you can appreciate its value.
- VIRGO
Aug. 23-Sept. 22
Expect things to go your way—and they will. Steer clear of a group associate who would like to stir things up.
- LIBRA
Sept. 23-Oct. 22
Clear up unfinished business before you're free to enjoy a few days of rest and relaxation. Stick to regular routine.
- SCORPIO
Oct. 23-Nov. 21
An opportunity to join a professional group comes your way, thereby enhancing your standing in the community.
- SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 22-Dec. 21
The new Moon in Virgo puts the spotlight on career matters. Take care that you don't antagonize a superior.
- CAPRICORN
Dec. 22-Jan. 19
Transactions with people at a distance could cause havoc. Heed the advice of one who has a little more experience in these matters.
- AQUARIUS
Jan. 20-Feb. 18
Resources and savings may seem to be sifting through your fingers. Take a good look at the record.
- PISCES
Feb. 19-Mar. 20
There is a need for cooperation and compromise in important relationships. A friendly old-timer has some good advice.

Terrace Youth Centre sets agenda, seeks volunteers

Contributed by Pat Williams

The volunteers at the Terrace Youth Centre had another successful year. Throughout the year the volunteers put together programs and fun activities for youths ages 10 to 19. The youths have enjoyed tie-dying T-shirts, trips to the hot springs, win-lose or draw games, dances and slumber parties at the Centre.

The Centre strives to add some fun and skill training to a teen or preteen's life. Activities and programs planned for the fall include a basic first aid course, a driver's test study group, a babysitting course, a teen rap session, aerobic classes, swimming, skating and dances.

The success of the Terrace Youth Centre reflects the quality of its volunteers and depends on community support. The Centre and all its kids would like to thank each individual who has cared and has helped, as well as the community groups and businesses that have given us support. We could not have done it without you.

We are currently searching for volunteers and seeking financial support for the new year. Any amount of volunteer time is valuable to us, and any amount of financial support is crucial. We look forward to hearing from you.

Our annual general meeting will be held on Monday, August 28 at 7 p.m. at the Centre located at 4634 Walsh Avenue in Terrace. Anyone interested in enriching the lives of our young people is invited to attend. For further information, call the Youth Centre at 635-2018, Pat at 638-0112 or Judith at 638-8120.

Hire-a-Student wraps it up

Contributed by Rosa Moelker and Kathryn McKay

The Hire-A-Student Program has been a success again for another year. Despite the construction and moving into the new office building, the Student Placement Officers have helped to fill 322 job vacancies. These include Regular (full time for the summer), Casual (jobs lasting five days or less), and SEED (Summer Employment Experience Development) jobs.

The summer's events went very well, including our casual job competition with Kitimat, Prince Rupert and Terrace. Terrace won the competition with 76 placements over Kitimat's 55, and Prince Rupert's 19. Terrace also placed in the top 15 in the regional competition held throughout B.C. and Yukon.

The students that we worked with were all eager to work and all wanted to gain valuable work experience. We found that those who got the jobs were the students with the correct attitude towards job searching. They were pleasant, determined, always on time, appropriately dressed, and willing to learn. We found that although many employers are looking for certain qualifications, attitude and first impressions have a lot to do with whether or not someone gets hired.

We would like to congratulate all the students who are working this summer, and thank all those in the community of Terrace who have helped to make our Student Program a success. We look forward to working with you next year.

and other things, delivered unilaterally to the local school board. Anything over and above that has to be funded by raising local taxes.

The central concept behind the funding formula is that the province will provide the bare bones of education to local school districts and anything that goes beyond that has to be paid for from local revenue. That anything could include special local initiatives for innovative programs in education (some of which may qualify for provincial funding if they meet certain conditions), new technology in classrooms (which the ministry may also fund to some extent under some conditions) and a variety of other things, the most significant of which in recent years has been the number of teachers hired and how much those teachers are paid.

The negotiating process between the board and the teachers in School District 88 in recent years has gotten a lot of press. Last year teachers were given the option by the Ministry of Education to form collective bargaining units, and after months of negotiating with the local board they went out on strike for four weeks. After a prolonged series of diatribes and screeds from both sides a settlement was reached, a settlement generally perceived by local taxpayers to be an expensive one. The following four-year average will put that in perspective:

Over four years instruction cost us $2,025,000 in increases; during the same period the total cost of operating School District 88 went up $6,336,607. The increase in local residential property taxes collected to finance that increase was $2,061,270. It would appear at first examination that virtually all the property tax increase went toward a higher cost of instruction, but that ignores increases in the expenses of administration and support, operations and maintenance, auxiliary services and transportation.

The questions remaining are very qualitative ones: are we getting a better education for our children relative to the higher taxes we are paying? With the second highest property tax increase in the province since 1983, are our children getting the second best (qualitative) education in the province? If the current trend continues, is it fair to expect property owners alone to bear the burden of higher and higher local assessments to finance education, and is it fair to expect locally-elected school trustees to walk a finer and finer line between what local taxpayers will tolerate in property taxes and what the public in this district expects in the way of education?

This method of raising money to finance schools and other local services that people expect of their governments is not the only way it can be done. For some of the other proposals, some of the alternatives, read the second installment of this analysis in next week's Terrace Review.

Terrace Rotary Club president Wayne Epp (center) distributed the prizes last week from the Rotary Riverboat Race that took place during Riverboat Days. Don Casper (right) won the main prize of $2,000. Doch Robertson won a trip for two to Vancouver and two nights' accommodation from Canadian Airlines International, and although third-prize winner Deanna Van Hulle didn't make it for the picture, her new gas barbecue did.

"Rambo"-style fish patrols criticized

For several months now Gordon Sebastian, a Hazelton board director for the Regional District of Kitimat-Stikine, has complained of "Rambo" style Canada Fisheries patrols on the Skeena and Bulkley Rivers near Hazelton. According to Sebastian, one operation could involve a dozen or more heavily armed Fisheries officers using trucks, riverboats and helicopters.

by Tod Strachan

Sebastian said at a recent regional district board meeting that he was concerned by this over-reaction of the federal Fisheries and the strain it could place on relations with the Native fishery. He said there was a real possibility that someone would eventually be killed or injured and he requested that these concerns be sent to the Minister of Fisheries and Oceans, Tom Siddon. He received the support of the entire board.

Siddon responded to the regional district's letter on July 11 and it was presented to the board on Aug. 12 — but Siddon's response offered neither a sympathy or a solution.

"Fishery officers do conduct the type of patrols you mentioned in the Regional District of Kitimat-Stikine," writes Siddon. "These patrols are required to control 'poaching' problems. Please be assured that these patrols are necessary, and are not targeted at the Indian food fishery."

Siddon goes on to say that both the Bulkley and "Stikine" (Siddon may have meant the Skeena, since the regional district letter made no mention of the Stikine River) rivers have experienced 'poaching' problems and describes how a typical operation may involve two riverboats with four fishery officers on each boat. "This number of officers is required to safely handle the boat and to deal with any illegal fishing encountered such as seizing the illegal gill-nets," explains Siddon. "As well, other officers may be based on land to provide assistance as required, such as storing of illegal nets and illegally caught fish."

Siddon's reply did little to appease the board. "He doesn't even mention arms," Sebastian pointed out, and assured the board, "They're fully armed." He added that a typical "raid" takes place at locations where Native fishermen and families are camped and said Siddon has not addressed any safety concerns or the fact that Native families are involved.

Siddon's reply did, however, draw attention to Canada Fisheries' lack of commercial policing. "Four people in a boat," said Kitimat director Joanne Monaghan emphatically. "That's ludicrous. We have one, sometimes two, trying to police the entire Douglas Channel and have had foreign vessels come and vacuum the channel. I suggest he put some of that force on the channel — one boat does far more damage there."

On a motion by Monaghan, the regional district has written Siddon to note the lack of enforcement in Douglas Channel.

POLICE REPORT

Terrace RCMP are investigating two fires that occurred Aug. 19 which they believe were set deliberately.

The first was discovered shortly after midnight in the garage of a home at 4636 Haugland St. The fire was extinguished quickly, confining damage to the rear wall of the structure, but a witness was said to have seen an unidentified male fleeing the scene just before the flames were observed.

The other fire broke out in a small cabin in Thornhill on Seaton Rd. behind Columbia Auto Haus. The fire was put out by the Thornhill Volunteer Firefighters. Police said the blaze appears to have been started with an inflammable chemical.

A Terrace resident was charged with impaired driving and refusing a breathalyzer after a three-vehicle accident at Highway 16 and Kalum St. at noon Aug. 19. The driver who was charged had struck an eastbound vehicle head-on while west-bound on the highway, then hit a stationary vehicle on Kalum St. at the intersection.

The driver of the east-bound vehicle was taken to Mills Memorial Hospital with facial injuries.

A motorcyclist was taken to hospital with undetermined injuries Aug. 19 after being hit by a truck making a left turn on Lakelse Ave. The accident occurred at 10:45 p.m.

The driver of the truck was making a left-hand turn into the parking lot of the Royal Bank and failed to see the motorcycle.

Charges of failing to yield the right-of-way on a left-hand turn were laid against the driver of the truck.

For the weekend of Aug. 18-20, Terrace RCMP report a total of 13 motor vehicle accidents in the Terrace-Thornhill area.

Top Japanese martial arts team relaxes here

The Japanese Chito-Ryu Karate "A" Team from Kumamoto, the main world center for karate located on the Japanese island of Kyushu, spent a few days in Terrace recently and it wasn't simply on a whim — they came here because they wanted to.

The "A" Team's coach, Tsuyoshi Chitose, explains that they needed to go somewhere to train and relax, to get rid of the jet lag, and Terrace was their choice. Terrace resident Joe Zucchiatti, B.C. Chito-Ryu Association treasurer, speaks fluent Japanese, at least fluent to the untrained ear, and he offers some of their reasons.

The martial arts experts came to Terrace because they have heard of the stunning scenery and fishing in the area. "They were overwhelmed by the beauty," says Zucchiatti. During their stay, besides six hours of training every day, the "A" Team tried their hand at salt water fishing out of Prince Rupert and caught 25 fish including salmon, halibut, red snapper and six other species.

Zucchiatti says he prepared some Salmon Sashimi right on the spot and "A" Team members said they had never tasted better. His secret? Fresh salmon. Zucchiatti says that sashimi is thinly sliced raw fish served with soya sauce and hot horse radish, and the fresher the fish the better. When asked about their favorite food, however, Zucchiatti said, "They ate a lot of pizza."

Another day enjoyed by the "A" Team was a trip to Kitimat. They bathed in the Mount Layton Hot Springs and took a tour of the Eurocan pulp and paper plant, but Zucchiatti says the most memorable part for the Japanese visitors was a few hours on a farm: they spent several hours at Dr. Chee Ling's Kitimat farm helping the Ling family stack bails of hay and the farm experience was a novel one for the "A" Team.

But there was another reason for coming to Terrace. Terrace is the home of the Western Canadian chief instructor, 51-year-old David Akutagawa, holder of a 6th Dan Black Belt. According to Zucchiatti, Akutagawa is thought by Canadian karate enthusiasts to be technically the most competent karate expert in Canada; he is also the chief referee for Canada.

Zucchiatti says that Akutagawa will be heading for Venezuela in September to train and prepare for refereeing at the Pan American Games. Akutagawa has been working on stabilizing the quality of Chito-Ryu refereeing, and the sport may soon be a demonstration event in the Olympics.

An interesting side note is the fact that one member of the team, the Japanese national champion Ryuichi Nakamura, has decided he wants to return to Terrace soon. He has long been planning to move to Canada to take English as a second language and his choice is now Northwest Community College in Terrace. He says he likes the area and Terrace offers the advantage of training with Akutagawa.

The "A" Team came to B.C. to compete in the three-day Soke Cup, sponsored by the Chito-Kay Association at UBC last weekend.

World-class performance

Terrace karate enthusiasts made up a strong element in B.C.'s spectacular showing in a world-wide Chito-Ryu competition held in Vancouver last weekend.

The Northwest group competed in the Soke Cup, a prestigious world tournament that drew over 1,000 competitors, more than 200 of them from Japan, home of the popular martial art.

Terrace club member Joe Zucchiatti says one of the most surprising results was a silver medal for Terrace's Deborah Casey in women's Junior Kata (forms). Casey is a green-belt level competitor who went up against higher-level black belts.

Rassame Ling of Kitimat secured the world's championship in women's Kata, and sister Lisa Ling took a silver medal in women's Kumite (fighting) and bronze in women's Kata, and another sister, Tanya Ling, placed fourth in women's Kata.

Zucchiatti said other B.C. clubs did extremely well at the Cup and gave much of the credit for that to Terrace club instructor David Akutagawa, who has coached many of the B.C. contingent who placed in the medals.

In an interesting sidelight, the Japanese "A" team that won the men's team Kumite came to Terrace on a visit shortly before competing in the cup. A member of that team, Hiroshi Tanaka, won the men's Soke Cup.

Zucchiatti himself defeated a Chilean competitor in one round, then fell honorably to the club champion from Tokyo. At the closing banquet he and four other rather mature competitors were named to the All Geritol (oldtimers') team.

'60's entertainers needed

Contributed by Kim Cordeiro

Hold onto your tie-dyed shirts, love beads and flowers — the Northwest Community College Students' Association is tripping back to the past with a Psychedelic 60's Coffee House on Sept. 15.

We are looking for some far-out, groovy entertainers to perform during this — a fine college tradition — coffee house. If you would like to join us, we need singers, poetry readers, or even beatnik bongo players! Everyone is welcome to take part.

It should be, like, a cosmic night of far-out entertainment. To get involved, or for more information, call Kim Cordeiro at the College, 635-6511. Up with the 60's!

Park sponsors Family Day at Lakelse

Lakelse Lake Provincial Park, under the leadership of park naturalist James Roop, is inviting the community to come out for a family day at the lake Sept. 3.

Activities start at the picnic shelter at Furlong Bay with an opening statement and review of the day's agenda by Roop. That will be followed by a scavenger hunt through the park, a short course in leaf printing, a picnic lunch with park mascot Jerry the Moose, and a Sandcritter Competition.

The day will conclude around 4 p.m. with awards, presentations and some closing comments.

Further information is available from James Roop at 638-0063.
